Victorian Housing	Famous Victorians	Victorian Games
Use an old show box and junk materials to create a Victorian room. Think where your room is situated. Is it in a large townhouse owned by a wealthy Lord or Lady or is it in the slums? What differences will there be in the furniture, decoration and architecture? 	Choose a Famous Victorian and write a factfile to show your learning. Think of the important information you should include e.g. when and where they were born, facts about their childhood and of course why they became famous. You could include a photo or drawing.	Kim's game was a popular parlour game played in Victorian Times. To play, ask an adult to place 10 household items on a tray. Give yourself 1 minute to memorise all of the items. Ask the adult to cover the tray. Can you write down all 10 items? Now ask the adult to remove 1 item. Can you spot which item is missing?

Music and dancing can make us feel good and is great exercise. Choose some of your favourite music and choreograph a simple dance. Use your computational thinking skills and knowledge of procedural writing to write out the steps for someone else to follow. How good were your instructions? How could you improve them?	In order to keep our bodies healthy, we should eat a rainbow of fruit and vegetables. Draw a rainbow. Try to think of as many fruits and vegetables as you can for each colour. Circle the fruits and vegetables that you have tried. Star at least three more that you are going to try for the first time.
